-I first got this a little while ago & have had it out now about a dozen times, so I feel I can give it a fair rating at this point. I'm directing my review to those out there who- like me- have a "grab & go" table-top mount for a smaller reflector (in my case, an Orion 90 mm Mak-Cass) and are considering taking things to the next level. The Orion 9829 SkyView Pro Equatorial Mount is arguably one of the most stable equatorial mounts for the money. And, of course, provided everything is in order when the mount ships and you can fully assemble the mount, you can certainly feel the difference between it and its lower-priced alternatives.
